

SHAIKH COLLEGE OF EDUCATION OBSERVES WORLD CONSUMER RIGHTS DAY

The Department of Commerce organized a program on World Consumer Rights Day. The event began with anchoring by Shafiya Abasali H (B.Ed 3rd Semester), followed by a welcome speech delivered by Chaitra. A PowerPoint presentation on World Consumer Rights Day was presented by Akshata Tarihal .

The main purpose of organizing this program was to create awareness about consumer rights and the importance of adopting fair trade practices. The objective was to educate participants about consumer protection laws, fair business practices, and the functioning of business operations.

Prof. Rukaya A.K delivered an insightful speech on World Consumer Rights Day. The Principal of SCOE, Dr. Indira P. Sutar, addressed the gathering and emphasized the importance of consumer awareness. She explained that consumer rights are protected under the Consumer Protection Act and that individuals can seek justice in consumer courts. She also highlighted that consumers have the right to raise their voices against misleading advertisements and issues related to product expiry dates.

The program was highly informative and inspiring for both students and faculty members. It concluded with a heartfelt vote of thanks by Deepa Kottal .
